ANTI-GERMAN RIOTS INCREASING IN LONDON

Special Meeting of Cabinet Called to Consider Plans for Dealing With Them—War Office Orders Out 10,000 Troops—Fear German Homes Will Be Burned.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, May 12.—Alarmed by the spread of anti-German riots throughout London and England today, Premier Asquith this afternoon called for a special meeting of the cabinet to consider plans for dealing with the disturbances.

The war office ordered 10,000 troops to various sections of the city. Martial law is imminent. The authorities fear that German homes will be burned tonight.

London, May 12.—Anti-German riots that were resumed this morning are growing in violence this afternoon. Pitched battles are being fought between the mobs and the police.

Many have been injured and scores have been arrested. The special constabulary force organized for service if German airships raided London were called out at noon to protect former subjects of Germany. German residents of the East End, via Dock Road concentrated at two houses today and fortified those for defense. These were stormed by mobs, but the Germans succeeded in beating off their assailants. When the police arrived on the scene they called upon the Germans to surrender, promising protection, but the Germans refused.

Believing that if the Germans were allowed to remain in the houses, the rioting would continue, police reinforcements were called to get them out.

A dozen arrests were made by the police after rioting in the East End but the disorder continued. The police here were reinforced by 600 special constabulary and troops were held in readiness for action.

Many Russian Jews flocked to the police stations asking protection because they had been mistaken for Germans.

Turbulent scenes occurred at Smithfield Market, every German there being hunted out and driven from the locality, being chased by the English seamen as far as Holborn. Several of the fugitives were stoned and seriously injured. One man turned on his pursuers and drew a revolver. When the crowd wavered he dashed to a subway station and escaped.

German shops were sacked and vans carrying meats to them were overturned and set on fire.

Russian residents of the Aldgate section called for police protection this afternoon because the mobs had mistaken several of them for Germans.

By 3 o'clock the rioting had extended to North London, indicating that the demonstrations were being directed systematically. All the shops of German bakers in this section were looted, though mounted police were called out to disperse the mobs. Soldiers were also called to this section but they permitted the police to deal with the situation.

In the meantime the water-front was the scene of continued riots. Sixty-four German shops near the docks were sacked. German jewelry shops were smashed and their contents thrown into the gutters. Germans found hiding under beds were thrown out of windows. Planes in various homes were smashed.

Several police and civilians were injured in this district.

ROYALIST RIOTS IN PORTUGAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Lisbon, May 12.—The most serious political riots that have occurred since the Royalist attempt was made to replace Manuel upon the Portuguese throne took place here today. Many persons were hurt, some of them fatally. Scores of arrests were made and a declaration of martial law is threatened. Four thousand Royalists took part in the hostile demonstration against the Republic government. Former Premier Costa addressed the mob and pleaded with the rioters to disperse without avail. The Royalists marched to the residence of Captain Couceiro, one of their leaders, where the disorders broke out afresh.

The Times Has a Birthday.
This week's issue of the New Paltz Times begins its fifty-sixth year as a representative newspaper. Since the death of the founder, Charles J. Ackert, the paper has been conducted by the widow. It still continues to be the same newsy paper it always was and gives its subscribers everything of interest in its part.

Mrs. Ackert's friends and acquaintances hope she will continue at the desk for many years to come.

Proceeds of the Fair.

The net receipts of the fair held by the ladies of Trinity Methodist Church was $670.11. During the year ending March 31 they raised from various entertainments the sum of $835.01.

RUSSIANS ADMIT RETREAT OF ARMY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Petrograd, May 12.—Terrific onslaughts by Austro-German forces in the Carpathians have forced the Russian army to retreat. The war office admitted today that the Czar's troops had withdrawn from the Beskid ranges, but stated that the retreat was effected in orderly fashion and that practically all the artillery had been saved.

"Our troops have fallen back without disorder to the positions assigned them," it was stated. "There they have checked the enemy's attacks, which for a time threatened disaster to a large part of our forces."

"The Russian lines are intact upon the new front. At not a single point has the foe succeeded in piercing our front."

FRENCH ADMIT GERMAN SUCCESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, May 12.—Official admission that part of the trenches captured by the French at Verdun had been retaken by the Germans in a furious counter-assault, was made today by the French war office. The German attacks were delivered last night within a few hours after the French had captured the earthworks.

The official communique shows that the great battle north of Arras still continues over ground which has seen much furious fighting since the war began.

(Verdun lies five miles southeast of Bethune and about 11 miles north of Arras. It is on the Bethune-Arras highway and upon the railway line that runs through Douai and Bethune. It is not far north of Carney where the French claimed to have the Germans nearly surrounded yesterday.)

The Germans have taken up strong artillery positions along the La Bassée-Lens railway, in the Arras sphere of operations. At some points the Germans had massed an unexpected number of men and guns and were able to assume the offensive after the battle had really been launched by the allies. Enormous numbers of cannon had been sent to this front from Germany and Belgium.

A French aviator made a daring flight over the German lines destroying bridges across the canal near Courrières and Douai.

The village of Beaumont has been completely destroyed by artillery fire, 23 persons being killed. So terrible was the bombardment of the Germans that all the villages all along the battle front have been deserted.

NAVIGATION NOTES.

Owen Lavelle, formerly mate of the steamer Tremper, has been transferred to a similar position on the steamer Newburgh of the Central-Hudson line. William Collier takes Mr. Lavelle's place on the Tremper.

Ralph Hoag, formerly clerk on the Homer Ramsdell, has been made purser of the steamer Marlborough.

The tug Saracac, after being in the Rondout creek for inspection and repairs, left on Tuesday night for New York.

The tug Baker came down the river this morning with the tow from Albany. The Cordis is bound up from New York.

OLIVE BRIDGE.

Olive Bridge, May 12.—Mrs. Harry Harvey and two sons, Elmer and Leroy, and little daughter, Gladys, have returned home from a visit in Kingston.

Mrs. G. H. Mackey, Jr., and little son, Cleo, of Kingston are spending some time with her sister in this place.

P. Wood is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harry Harvey.

William Quick and wife spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Leroy Davis has improved his residence by adding a porch.

Little Hilda Constable is ill.

E. Bonnes has purchased an automobile. Look out for Ed. boys.

Letter Writer Fined.

The trial of the case of The People against Abram Williams, alias "Silver Dagger," alias "Big Dan," who was arrested for sending a threatening letter to a DeGroot girl in Ponckhockie, resulted in a verdict of guilty this morning in recorder's court. Williams was fined $5 and warned to keep away from the girl in the future. Abe's letter was illicitly written or printed and contained a heart pierced with a dagger at the bottom.

LADY WARWICK ON ENGLAND'S "WAR BABIES."

London, May 12.—"To my mind there is more immorality, more glaring offense to the Creator in one battlefield full of dead and mangled humanity than has gone to the creation of all the unfortunate children who will come crying and unwelcome into our tear-stricken world before the year draws to an end. Those who rule over Europe are responsible."

So said the Countess of Warwick, England's most distinguished social worker. She continued:

"War is a monstrous immorality that seeks to destroy the world. The illicit unions are but a side issue which I am interested in because of those who will pay the price, the mother and child, and it is really a minor immorality from which with a little care, a little loving kindness and a little foreknowledge, much good, much deep morality may spring."

REWARD OF $50 FOR MARY JORDAN

District Attorney Cunningham has offered a reward of $50 for information which will lead to the recovery of Miss Mary Jordan of West Shokan, who left her home there on Sunday afternoon, April 18, and has not been seen since her arrival in Kingston late the same day.

Miss Jordan's father and aunt are almost heartbroken over her disappearance and long for her return home. They have exhausted all means within their power to locate her, but have not abandoned hope that she will return. District Attorney Cunningham and his staff have worked unceasingly in an effort to find some trace of her whereabouts.

It is believed that Miss Jordan may be in the vicinity of Kingston, and if so, her family and friends hope that she will answer the appeal of her father to return home.

Verdict for Defendant.

This morning in supreme court the jury in the action brought by Mrs. Emma B. Geary of High Falls against Charles P. and Arnold C. Dickinson—The Honk Falls Power Company—to recover $25,000 damages for the death of her son, Eugene Geary, brought in a sealed verdict of "No cause of action." The case was tried by Mr. Kelley of Kelley & Connelly of New York City with Judge Jenkins of counsel for Mrs. Geary, while Senator Linson and Cunningham & Traer appeared for the power company.

The case was summed up by District Attorney Cunningham for the power company and Mr. Kelley for Mrs. Geary at Tuesday morning's session of court and sent to the jury who were unable to agree until shortly after ten o'clock that evening. Young Geary, who was a lineman in the employ of the Dickinsons, was at work on a pole in Rosendale when he received a shock and was hurled from the pole, receiving injuries that resulted in his death later in the day at the Kingston City Hospital, where he was brought after the accident. It was claimed that the power company was negligent, which was denied.

Reckless Automobilists.

Three automobilists were captured by the police on Tuesday. Policeman Hess arrested Miss Marjorie Little and Freeman Sheeley, the former for driving on the wrong side of St. James street and the latter for the same offense on Cedar street. Recorder Lang discharged them with a warning not to repeat the offense. C. Kuhlenskamp was arrested by Policeman Kuehn for speeding on Broadway. His case was adjourned until Thursday morning.

Auction at the Vly.

An auction will be held on Wednesday, May 26, at the residence of Elias O. Vandemark at The Vly. A large number of articles of household furniture will be disposed of.

BLACK SEA FLEET BOMBARDS FORTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Petrograd, May 12.—Official announcement was made today that the Russian Black sea fleet bombarded the Bosphorus forts for a fourth time on Monday. The Turkish fleet emerged to give battle but was driven back after several shells had struck the cruiser Goeben. She is believed to have been badly damaged.

A dispatch from Sebastopol states that Russian destroyers have sunk three large Turkish ships near Sanguak, on the Anadolian coast.

HUSKY TRAMPS BENT LOCKUP BARS

On Tuesday afternoon two tramps, Michael Mieske and Presta Powell, were arrested on Broadway in front of the high school for being drunk and disorderly. They put up a fierce fight and it took several men to land them in a cell. After being locked up the tramps broke out the windows, bent the bars of their cells as if they had been made of putty and wrought out their destruction in the lock-up.

When arraigned this morning before Recorder Lang they pleaded guilty and were sent to the Albany Penitentiary for three months each.

Dr. Steiner Next Tuesday.

Dr. Edward A. Steiner, who last year lectured to an audience that filled the First Dutch Church and who is the last of this year's post jubilee lecturers, will be in Kingston next week Tuesday. On that evening he will lecture on "The Challenge of the American Spirit," and so popular is Dr. Steiner as a public speaker, that there is no doubt that again the great auditorium of the First Dutch Church will be filled to hear him.

Hobo Rescued a Child.

"Just a hobo," they said he was, but he rescued a child from a watery grave in Newburgh on Tuesday. A two-year-old son of Frank Adams fell into the reservoir of the Hudson River woolen mill and had gone down twice. The tramp was working nearby with a contracting firm and heard the child's screams. He dived into the water and brought the boy ashore. The hobo refused to give his name and said he had done nothing unusual.

Private Water Works.

J. A. Hiller of Hurley is installing a new power pump and a New Way air cooled gasoline engine to supply water to his establishment. The outfit was furnished by the Canfield Supply Company.

MOBS ATTACKING GERMANS IN ENGLAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, May 12.—The deep, nation-wide wrath against the Germans, whose smouldering embers were fanned to flames by the torpedoing of the Lusitania, is growing, and hostile demonstrations and riots were again reported from many places today.

In this city mobs, some of which were made up largely of women of the militant suffragette type, attacked German shops and German citizens in the streets. In the east end the police were jeered as "Huns" when they attempted to rescue German citizens. Three members of one mob were so badly beaten by the police they had to be taken to a hospital and 15 arrests were made.

In many stores the following signs have been put up:

"We do not sell to citizens of the following countries: Germany, Austria and Turkey."

British wholesale markets are refusing to supply German shopkeepers with meat, fish and other commodities.

Lord Charles Beresford, a member of Parliament, is demanding the arrest of all persons of German extraction. "No matter what their wealth nor their station in life," This would strike close to the throats as Germans have married into the Royal family.

In addition to the bitter editorial comments against the Germans fierce tirades are contained in letters published by the evening newspapers. All persons bearing Teutonic names or having German blood are advised to surrender to the police for internment or leave the country. England has not been aroused to such an extent since the war started. One result of this high state of feeling is the increased number of enlistments.

At a public concert of the London Symphony Orchestra the musicians refused to play Wagner's "Siegfried."

Towards noon the rioting in the east end had become so violent that the police were helpless and it was regarded as likely that troops would be necessary. Barber shops, meat markets and other stores were attacked and looted. Shop windows were smashed and furniture hurled into the street, where it was burned. Windows were broken in private dwellings and residences were stoned.

UNARMED SHIPS MUST NOT BE ATTACKED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 12.—His policy of firmness unchanged by the receipt of a note from Germany stating that the Kaiser's government shall respect the flag of the American nation but does not intend to desist from attacks on enemy ships merely because they carry neutral passengers, President Wilson will dispatch a note to Germany within 48 hours, demanding a cessation of attacks upon unarmed vessels.

Officials close to the White House today indicated that this step is certain to be taken. The president's note will voice the indignation felt by the American people over the loss of more than a hundred citizens of the U. S. on the British liner Lusitania. It is stated:

The cases of the Lusitania, the Gulfight, the Cushing and the Falaba are to be joined together in presenting the case for the U. S. to Germany. What the president specifically wants, according to reliable report, is assurance from the Teutonic ruler that ships suspected of being in war-like trade shall be searched and if incriminating evidence be found, seized as prizes of war, but not sent to the bottom without warning, merely upon a presumption of guilt.

It is also confidently stated that the president's note shall declare that the U. S. has not at any time recognized the rights of Germany to carry on such warfare as that directed against the Lusitania. The warning given passengers before the sailing of the Lusitania shall be touched upon, the note declaring that warning of intention to commit an act not deemed lawful, constitutes no justification of that act in the eyes of the American government.

The president is aware that it may be necessary to back up strong words with strong measures, but is prepared.

Suit Against Railroad.

This morning the action brought by former Sheriff Henry J. Hoffman against the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad to recover $5,000 damages for the loss of his store at Binnewater which was destroyed by fire was taken up for trial before Judge Chester and a jury in supreme court. A. E. Rose and Judge John G. Van Etten appeared for Mr. Hoffman. Amos Van Etten appeared for the railroad and Assemblyman Henry R. DeWitt for the insurance company. It is alleged that the fire was caused by a spark from the locomotive of the Wallkill Valley train falling on the roof of the building which was located alongside the railroad tracks at the Binnewater crossing. This was the railroad crossing where a party of young people were struck by a freight train last year and several of the party later died from injuries received.

TUG BRINGS IN 17 MORE BODIES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Queenstown, May 12.—An ocean going tug her flag at half-mast and her deck covered with tarpaulin-covered corpses brought seventeen more bodies of Lusitania victims into this port this morning and five of them were immediately identified. One identification was that of Percy Seacombe, of Boston, whose father was master of the Cunard steamship Cephalonia for many years. It was announced that two others were identified as "J. Hanson, a second class passenger," and "A. P. Norris." There was a Samuel Hanson listed among the second cabin passengers, but the name of "A. P. Norris" was not included in the list of passengers on the destroyed liner. Two others of the victims were identified as members of the lost ship's crew.

Forty-five bodies have been brought to port during the past thirty-six hours and at the time this dispatch was written the missing were estimated at between 960 and 970.

The body of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt was reported to have been found late yesterday.

Among the missing are Elbert Hubbard and his wife, Charles Klein, the playwright, Justus M. Forman, the American author; Herbert Stone and Lindon Bates, Jr.

Fishermen have been retained by families of some of the lost persons to search every foot of the Irish coast in hope that bodies may have been cast ashore. Life-guards along the coast have been instructed by the government to perform a similar service.

Many of the survivors who left here carried with them some memento of the disaster. Some took with them the life-belts which had saved their lives.

TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE SEASON OPENS

On Saturday the Tri-County Baseball League season will be opened in every locality which has a team represented in the organization. In this city the Red Monograms will open the season with the crack De Peyster aggregation of Tivoli. Game will be called on McVey's field at 4 p. m. Mayor Canfield will be on the firing line a sufficient length of time to send the first ball across the home plate.

Judging from the auspicious conditions under which the league will begin the season, there is every indication that the organization will be liberally supported by the fans and that it will continue to exist throughout the season.

On Sunday the Red Monograms and Fred Witmore's Hustlers of Poughkeepsie will be the steller attraction at McVey's. The Hustlers are undoubtedly one of the strongest teams along the Hudson, and a fast, interesting game is promised.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Catherine E. TerBush of the town of Ulster has been proved and admitted to probate in surrogate's court before Surrogate Gill, and letters testamentary granted to Samuel F. Alliger and Dory Osterhoudt. The value of the estate is $1,400 personal property. V. B. Van Wagonen, attorney. The will is dated April 15, 1908, and witnessed by Henry McNamee and Elizabeth TerBush. It directs that after all just debts are paid that to her niece, Sarah E. Osterhoudt, wife of Dory Osterhoudt, be given certain monies in the Ulster County Savings Institution, the amount not stated, also one green decorated dinner and tea set and one round parlor table. To her sister-in-law, Lavina Alliger, is given one parlor suite, one two drawer stand and all wearing apparel. To her brother, Samuel F. Alliger, and her sister-in-law, Lavina Alliger, is given her best feather bed and pillows and certain monies in the Ulster County Savings Institution, amount not stated. To Inez Raymer, daughter of Henry Raymer, is given her gold watch.

The will of Mary Frances Krom of town of Marbletown was proved and admitted to probate letters testamentary granted to John H. Markle and William A. Morey. The value of the estate is $500 real and $2,200 personal property. V. B. Van Wagonen, attorney. The will has been printed in The Freeman.

Phelan Gets the Agency.

James A. Phelan of Broadway has been appointed by the Robert Smith Ale Brewing Company of Philadelphia its agent for the celebrated Burton ale. The Smith Ale Brewing Company is one of the oldest ale brewing companies in America, having been established in 1774, and has continued successfully in each succeeding generation. Mr. Phelan will have the Burton ale for family use exclusively.

GOT BLACK EYE AND THEN GOT HIS GUN

Abel Model had an argument with the foreman on the F. G. Schmidt place on Manor avenue on Tuesday and in the scuffle received a black eye. He then went to his room and procured a revolver and threatened the life of his boss. Policeman James J. Murphy arrested Model on the charge of violation of the Sullivan law. He pleaded not guilty and the matter was adjourned until Friday morning. In default of $2,000 bail he was committed to jail.

FLEET NOT GOING THROUGH CANAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 12.—The attempt to take the Atlantic fleet through the Panama canal this year has been definitely abandoned. This fact was learned from high official sources today at the same hour that Secretary of the Navy Daniels was announcing that he had still to consult Captain Rodman, his representative of the canal zone, before making up his mind on the question.

WILSON PREPARING NOTE TO GERMANY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 12.—President Wilson today is preparing a note to Germany buttressing his earlier "strict accountability" message.

Within 24 hours the American people will know the position of the American government on the matter. The issue of "peace or war" may be decided in the cable which the president is to send to the German foreign office.

There is every promise that the note will be firm in its defense and insistence upon American rights. The best opinion in Washington today inclined to the belief that Germany will be given the alternative of a "yes or no" answer regarding the demands made in the note and that upon the reply which she makes, hangs the issue of whether diplomatic relations will be severed. Should American diplomatic representatives to Germany be recalled and Count von Bernstorff handed his passports, it is recognized that it will be difficult to maintain peace between the two countries.

President Wilson it is understood is solidly backed by his cabinet in the action he has taken although Secretary of State Bryan, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Secretary of Labor Wilson are not as strong in their support of it, it is believed, as some of the others.

It is reported in Washington today that the president feels he has no other course open to him than to send a note of the character he has outlined. He is as determined as ever to prevent war, is possible, and also the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany, but in his note he will place the issues squarely up to Germany.

RETURNED EMPTY HANDED.

Deputy Sheriff Failed to Find Anything to Levy on.

This morning Seth Jocelyn of the sheriff's office went to Phoenixia to levy on the real and personal property of Charles M. Winne, a delinquent tax collector of the town of Shandaken, but returned to Kingston empty handed as he found that Mr. Winne had nothing that could be levied upon. Tuesday County Treasurer John A. Snyder applied to County Judge Jenkins for an order directing Sheriff Shults to levy upon the real and personal property of Mr. Winne. Mr. Winne it is alleged had collected taxes amounting to $50.26 which he had neglected and refused to pay over to the county treasurer. It is quite likely that as the sheriff's office could not find any property, either real or personal, to levy upon an action will be started to recover from Mr. Winne's bondsman. Mr. Winne besides being a tax collector is a blacksmith at Phoenixia.

Victim's $30,000 Necklace Gone.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Queenstown, May 12.—Following the identification of Mrs. Catherine Willey of Lake Forest, Ill., one of the Lusitania victims, Johnson Preston, who identified the body, told Wesley Frost, the American consul, that a $30,000 necklace, which Mrs. Willey always wore, was missing. Mrs. Willey's body had been taken ashore at Kinsale by fishermen and then brought here.

Vanderbilt's Body Not Found.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, May 12.—The American embassy of London does not believe the report that the body of Alfred G. Vanderbilt has been found. It was stated today. Inquiries sent to Liverpool and Queenstown by Ambassador Page have brought no confirmation.

LOWLANDS PARK.

City to Help Fill in the Swamp Uptown.

Steps are being taken to wipe out the swamp in the rear of the Herbert Carl Dry Goods Company's store on North Front street, and the swamp will be filled in and turned into a playground for the children. Mayor Canfield will assist in the work of having the swamp filled in by having the street force dump ashes there and the land will be raised several feet. There is a stretch of about 500 feet of land which will be filled in and a ball ground will be laid out, grass planted and a park made of the grounds. Steps leading down to the playground will be built from Fair street extension and benches will be placed on the grounds and a few are lights installed. It is expected that the work of filling in the swamp and turning it into a playground will be completed by the first of July. The cost of the work is being raised by popular subscription.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1246—A Very Pleasant Frock for the Growing Girl—Girl's Dress With or Without Tunic, and With Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

As here shown, white linen was employed, with striped ratine for collar and cuffs. A jaunty sash of blue messaline trims the waist. The dress may be finished without the tunic. The style is good for serge, or cashmere, for taffeta, crepe or batiste. It would be very pretty in all over embroidery or flouncing, combined with lawn or batiste. It made of linen the panel could be embroidered. The waist is cut with dropped shoulders, to which the sleeve portion is joined, and this may be in wrist or short length. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires 3 yards of 44 inch material for an 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 12, 1915.

If women have any use whatever for the ballot it must be to see that their children are properly educated, since that is a mother's chief business. If she takes no interest in the schools no political problem is likely to interest her. In Massachusetts women vote for school committees and boards of education, if they desire, and it is interesting to see how fully they avail themselves of the privilege. In Boston in 1903 the votes cast by women numbered 13,655. Year by year the total has fallen off and in 1914 it was 3,949. Boston has a population of something like 700,000. It is the general experience that when woman suffrage is established its novelty appeals to the fair sex, and they go to the polls, but casting ballots soon becomes an old and tiresome story. Then, if a woman votes at all, she does so because she is coerced or because some one tells her it is her duty to help save the country. No normal woman takes any more real interest in politics than a man does in fancy work.

The net municipal debt of the United States, according to carefully compiled figures, increased by $6.4 per cent between 1890 and 1902, and by 11.2 per cent between 1902 and 1913. This increase is going right on. In fact, bonds are being issued so rapidly that it is impossible to give an accurate total. New York City alone owes pretty nearly a billion dollars. The aggregate of municipal debts is many times greater than the national debt. There is no probability that the amount will ever be decreased. The United States may pay off its national debt, as it once did, but the others, nations of the world will never do so. At the beginning of this war the total indebtedness of the nations was about fifty billions of dollars, and before it ends that amount may be doubled. Generations yet unborn are expected to pay interest charges of between one and two billion dollars a year on these bonds and as much more on the debts of smaller political divisions. We sometimes wonder if posterity will do this. Reputation is an ugly thing, but there are men who would if they could avoid paying the debts of their prodigal great-grandfathers.

While the sensible portion of our citizens approves President Wilson's policy of treating our trouble with Germany with coolness, there is no marked enthusiasm over his assertion that "there is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight." This is about the worst nonsense we ever heard. If a man is too proud to fight he must also be too proud to protest or complain. He must submit to kicking and cuffing without a word, leaving it to the bystanders to say that he did not deserve such maltreatment. We have heard of business men who were too proud to fight for trade, and who scorned to advertise or offer special inducements, considering that it was the business of the public to find out the excellence of themselves and of their stock in trade. They never last long. A man who should give out the statement that he was too proud to fight a burglar or a tramp who had attacked his family would not thereby win the respect of his neighbors. There is no good man who is too proud to do anything that is right and necessary, which is an entirely different proposition from rushing into a fight which can be avoided with honor.

The slaughter of the Lusitania's passengers was bad enough, but perhaps the worst feature of the affair is the creation of race hatred which will last for many decades. There has been rioting all over England, and the lives of the 25,000 Germans in that country have been made very miserable. They have been chased out of the public markets. Englishmen will not work beside them or trade with them. Their property has been destroyed and they have been stoned and beaten. The police and constables have been unable to afford them protection. The Stock Exchange has warned its German members to absent themselves. This conduct is, of course, outrageous, and has no possible justification, since these persecuted Germans had nothing to do with sinking the ship. We are simply stating the facts. Few men now living will see the end of this hatred. It was not so long ago that the United States had a war with Spain. It was a cleanly fought war and during its continuance and since there has been no hatred between individual Americans and Spaniards. It is a common occurrence for a fight between two men to be the beginning of a warm and lasting friendship, but this is never the case when one of the combatants gouges the other's eye out. So it is with nations.

A WHISPER FROM CHRISTMAS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Perhaps with Fourth of July nearer at hand than is Christmas, it is rather late for the recital of a sure-enough Christmas story, but it came to me only yesterday and is worth passing along. It would be well if it might be enveloped with some of the enthusiasm and beautiful spirit that characterized it at first hand.

It concerns a woman of wealth and one of the delicate workers in the world, a girl only 19 years old, refined and sensitive to a degree, but not over-capable or physically strong.

In the rush of Christmas shopping the girl suddenly collapsed while serving a woman entirely unknown to her. She chanced to be a woman of wealth, with sympathies as broad as her means, and she suggested that her car take the girl home.

When the two reached the cheerless back room which the girl called home, the real story began. To the woman used to every luxury, the room looked so forsaken and unlivable and seemed so foreign to the appearance of the young stranger that, upon a sudden impulse, she asked the girl if she wouldn't put herself in her hands for a while; and consent came very willingly and gratefully.

She was taken to a hospital, where every care and delicate attention were hers, conspicuously the comforting knowledge that she was remembered every day and frequently brightened by personal visits.

But it was the work outside the hospital that counted the most.

A front room was substituted for its ugly predecessor, and paper and paint started the work of freshening, and the end was not reached until it stood forth in all the attractiveness of new furnishings, dainty and inviting. There was not an expensive thing anywhere, but every article was chosen with a regard for the beautiful, to appeal to one who loved brightness and pretty things, but knew little about them from actual experience.

Perhaps you can read between the lines and guess something of the details, soft muslin curtains, pretty colored hangings, scrap-basket, work-basket and all. If anything was forgotten it remained undiscovered.

When the morning came for dismissal from the hospital and the woman took her young protegee back to her home in a side street, there was something of regret at leaving the bright room and the cheery nurse for her own small, dreary quarters. But she said not a word, and when the door opened upon the unexpected brightness and newness and she realized that it was all for her—well, Lady Bountiful was paid for her efforts and for the last bit of expense. Tears of weakness and smiles of joy were about divided.

In the re-telling, the story loses its prettiness, but perhaps you will not make the same comment that was passed in the first recital. A woman, rather skeptical of the disinterestedness of human nature, thought it "a very odd thing to do for a stranger," and suspected that there might be some other motive than human sympathy—perhaps even a desire to be praised for the service.

But why is it so odd that a woman of abundant means, instead of sending a big check to be used for far-away benevolence should open her purse and her heart to a young woman almost within her gates? It seemed, and it was, a very gracious and beautiful act, unusual but not odd. The girl had no one closer to her than friends on her own financial basis, no reserve fund for illness, and she was facing a dreary prospect.

The narrator of the story tells that when she saw the girl in her room the day after Christmas, the whole place was radiant with sunshine, from within and without, and with the happy excitement attendant upon the "loveliest thing that ever came into my life."

And the whole world would be a more sunny place if such rich stories were oftener enacted.

And as to the woman—she must have enjoyed much of the reflected happiness, though it is natural to suppose that was not the first fine impulse acted upon. Just to write out a big, pretty check for a worthy charity must be right satisfying, but to extend a similar check, with the personal element splendidly thrown in, is to appreciate something of the best spirit of giving.

It may be a question which gained the more, each in her way.

Patriotic.

A school teacher recently gave his pupils a lecture on patriotism. He pointed out the high motives which moved the Territorials to leave their homes and fight for their country.

The school teacher noticed that one boy did not pay attention to the instruction, and as a test question he asked him:

"What motives took the Territorials to the war?" "The boy was puzzled for a moment, then, remembering the public 'send-off' to the local regiment at the railroad station, he replied: "Locomotives, sir."—Tit-Bits.

What, Indeed?

Jerome K. Jerome, the English humorist, attended, during his sojourn in Washington, an explorer's rather prosy lecture on his explorations. The lecture over, Mr. Jerome, as he got into his motor car, yawned and said: "What on earth will become of us if all the generals, after this world war, take to the platform?"—Washington Post.

The Regiment's Bad Men.

General Franks, a leader of many a dashing charge in India, held a unique position among his soldiers. They loved him for his courage, but were sometimes irritated by his strictness. Yet in spite of this exacting severity, he was unexpectedly lenient when a large occasion demanded it.

One day, when the regiment was "fired black," a bullet whistled by him. He did not stop the firing, but when the number of rounds ordered had been completed he rode up to the line and said:

"Boys, there's a bad shot in the 10th. He nearly shot my trumpet, and who should I have said to the boy's mother? I don't want to know the blackguard's name. The officers will not examine the men's pouches." This was on the eve of a campaign, and before action the senior major came to him and said: "Don't put yourself in front of the regiment tomorrow, sir. You know there are always one or two bad men in a regiment."

"That you, major," was the reply. "It's very kind of you. I might have given you a step."

When the 10th was drawn up for the final advance he put himself at its head, and called: "Boys, I'm told ye mane to shoot me today. Take my advice and don't shoot Tom Franks until the fighting's done, for ye won't find a better man to laide ye!"

The regiment answered with a cheer and carried the Sixth batteries with the bayonet, rather than run the risk of shooting the beloved old fire eater at their head.—New York World.

The Yoke.

George Ade, from the spacious windows of his club, nodded towards a thin, meek man, who, carrying half a dozen packages, walked beside a large woman of haughty aspect. "Alas, poor Smith!" said Mr. Ade. "I knew him when his wit was wont to set the table in a roar. And now—look at him now!"

Mr. Ade shook his head sadly as he saw the cowed, crushed figure of Mr. Smith vanished. Then he said:

"All men are born free and equal, but the majority of them marry at the age of 25 or so."—London Opinion.

What Makes White Spots on Nails. It is now thought that the white spots which frequently appear on finger nails are due to the presence of gas in the substance of the nail. They occur much more frequently during youth and in women. Usually found in persons of rous type. There is no remedy for them and no means of prevention except the avoidance of injury to the nails.

Local Anaesthetic

No one discovery has done as much to make dentistry painless as local anesthetic. Now it is used 24 cases out of 25 where painlessness is desired.

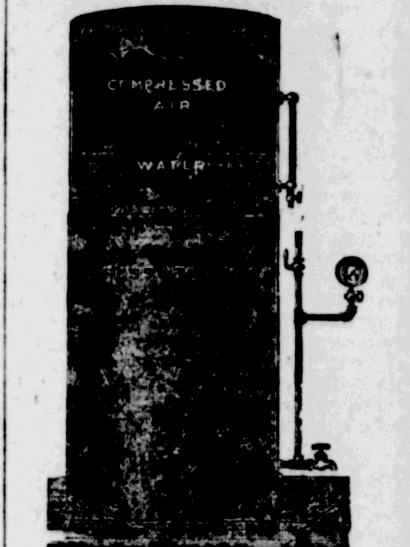

Local anesthetic when applied to the gums makes the nerves which lead to the tooth insensible to pain for about two minutes. This is long enough for a skilled operator to pull or treat a tooth.

There is only one precaution, the local anesthetic must be fresh. It disintegrates in about two weeks. We make ours fresh every three days and have never yet had it produce sore gums.

We extract teeth painlessly with this harmless local anesthetic for 50 cents. Open evenings to 9. Sundays, 9 to 1.

15 DEALERS SELL GRADE B MILK

At the present time but fifteen milk dealers in Kingston are selling Grade B raw milk, according to the report of Dr. Raymond Sanderson, the county bacteriologist, which he has submitted to the board of health, at whose request he made an examination of the milk handled in the city. Dr. Sanderson examined the milk handled by twenty-three dealers and found but fifteen selling Grade B milk. No action was taken on the report by the board of health on Tuesday evening as there was not a quorum present, the only members present being Mayor Canfield and Commissioners Michael and Kaufman. This was the first meeting in two years at which there was not a quorum present.

An informal discussion was held, however, and a number of communications were read by Secretary Sahlhoff, and the reports of the officers were received and filed.

Who Handle Grade B.

Probably the most interesting report received by the board was that from Dr. Sanderson. His report shows that there are a number of farmers in the county selling milk in Kingston that does not come up to the requirements of Grade B milk when it is put through a bacteria test at the county laboratory, although practically all of the farmers in the county with their equipment and method of handling milk score enough points to handle Grade B milk if their herd of cows can produce it. It is understood that most of the milk examined at the laboratory did not have sufficient butter-fat to meet the requirements of the sanitary code of Kingston. The code requires that milk must have at least 3 per cent butter-fat which is a low percentage as many cities require milk sold by dealers to contain at least 4 per cent butter-fat. Dr. Sanderson's report in full, with the names of those handling Grade B milk is as follows:

May 11, 1915.
Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., President
Board of Health, Kingston,
N. Y.

Honorable Sir:

At the request of your august body we have made seventy-four examinations of milk representing twenty-three dealers in the city of Kingston. We have examined for fat, specific gravity, total solids, bacterial count and in some cases for preservatives. We find that from a bacteriological and chemical standpoint the following dealers have qualified for Grade B raw milk:

A. Adin.
C. J. Babcock.
J. H. Beatty.
Charles DeForest.
Aug. Elmendorf.
B. A. Grant.
Glenhurst Dairy.
H. Hallenbeck.
Kingston Dairy Co.
E. Radatz.
W. R. Finger.
G. Farish.
Fred. Isahlem.
O. Cassidy.
Ulster Dairy.

The continuance of the work will be to take occasional samples from the foregoing to finish examining the milk of the dealers and as time and circumstances permit to take samples from the milk cans of the individual producers.

The laboratory is at all times willing to aid the dealers or producers throughout the county in their milk problems with regard to the production of more wholesome and sanitary milk.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed)
RAYMOND SANDERSON, M. D.,
Director.

Aretas Lodge Complaints.

Harry F. Gerhart, secretary of Aretas Lodge, No. 172, I. O. O. F., in behalf of the lodge wrote complaining of the condition of the hallway on the premises known as Castle Hall, No. 36 East Strand. He stated "This hallway is used for a backyard as garbage and so forth are allowed to accumulate in the corners as the occupants of the one flat in the building have no place in which to throw it as there are no cellars in the building. This hall is used five nights a week by as many lodges and many people pass up and down this hall and the stench is sometimes nauseating. Will your board kindly take this matter under consideration and see if these conditions cannot be remedied?"

The communication was referred to Sanitary Inspector Clarke for inspection.

Went: Pig Permits.

J. V. Torrey of No. 207 Clifton avenue wrote asking for a permit to keep pigs "for a short period of time." It was stated by some of those present at the meeting that

Mr. Torrey has what might be called transient pigs as he merely keeps a few over night in his barn.

Adam Thiel of Flatbush avenue also wrote asking for a permit to keep pigs and also to collect garbage on East and West Chester street.

No action was taken as there was not a quorum present of the board.

Mary V. Quigley of No. 599 Abeel street wrote asking for a permit to retail ice in the city. The business is under the name of George A. Quigley.

Complained of Swamp.

Fred Wolf of No. 33 Rock street was present at the meeting and entered a complaint in regard to a swamp on the property of Mrs. John Hutton which lies between Rock street and Third avenue. He said that the stench was such from the swamp in warm weather that it was necessary for him to sleep with all the windows of his house shut at night. He said that he was under the doctor's care and that the cause of his illness was due to the odor from the swamp and his being forced to sleep with his windows closed. He believed that the swamp could be wiped out by proper drainage.

The complaint was referred to Sanitary Inspector Clarke.

Reports of Officers.

The reports of the officers of the board were received and filed with Secretary Sahlhoff. The reports were as follows:

Health Officer's Report.

To the president and members of the board of health of Kingston, N. Y. I report that during the month of April, 1915, the following communicable diseases were reported and recorded:

Scarlet fever, 7.
Typhoid fever, 1.
Chicken pox, 1.
Whooping cough, 1.
Tuberculosis, 1.
Diphtheria, 1.
Mumps, 1.

Total, 14 cases, and eight different diseases.

Since the April meeting of the board the following milk producers have made improvements in their equipment and methods, and their scores as on file in my office today are as follows:

H. R. Brigham, (Prop. of Glenhurst Stock Farm), equipment, 32.5; methods, 58.5; total, 91; grade B, raw.

M. Klein, equipment, 18.5; methods, 34; total, 52.5; grade C, raw.

Patrick McSpirt, equipment, 28; methods, 40; total, 68; grade B, raw.

DeWitt Cole, equipment, 37; methods, 48; total, 85; grade B, raw.

Lewis Barton, equipment, 25.5; methods, 45; total, 70.5; grade B, raw.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, May 12.—Mrs. Eugene Quick spent Saturday with her mother, Mrs. Melissa Krom, on Rose Hill.

Mrs. Agnes Brown, Mrs. Florence Soleberg and Miss Louella Brown spent Thursday in Kingston.

Basil Decker of Tabasco has employment at Mrs. A. Brown's.

The young people from this place who attended the entertainment at Mettacahts last Friday evening, report a nice time.

Arthur Quick and Harry Brown attended the Sunday night meeting at Mettacahts.

The Arbor Day exercises given by the school last Friday afternoon were nicely rendered by all the children. A number of parents attended.

Remember the date of the ice cream social on the school house lawn Saturday evening, May 29.

Mrs. Myron Quick, who has been spending a week at the home of Mr. Quick's parents, has returned to her home in Walden.

The Hoornbeck boys came to attend their uncle's funeral on Sunday returning to Mohonk Monday morning.

The funeral of Peter Hornbeck, who died at his home on Tuesday, May 4, was held in the M. E. Church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services by his pastor, Rev. W. W. Voight.

The funeral was largely attended and friends from Samsonville, Palentown, Tabasco, Mombaccus and Mettacahts came to pay with relatives and neighbors in this place the last tribute to a true friend. He had been very ill four months.

Mr. Hornbeck was a member of the M. E. Church and a true Christian man. He was for a number of years our superintendent of our Sunday school. The temporal and spiritual interests of the church always lay near his heart and when able, he was always found in the sanctuary. He will be greatly missed in the home and among the people here for all who knew him found in him a helping friend and brother. He is survived by his wife and daughter, Miss Hilda Hornbeck, one daughter-in-law, Mrs. Perna Hornbeck, two granddaughters, Misses Anna and Mildred Horn-

The Great Dane.

It seems somewhat strange that the dog which is usually looked upon as the national one of Germany is the Great Dane.

It was in 1870 that the German authorities raised the Great Dane to this position. Previous to this the true Deutsche dog was what was known as the Ulmer dog—a much coarser and heavier dog, lacking all the grace and outline of the Great Dane.

The Ulmer was nearer to the make of the English mastiff, minus the quality and refined demeanor of the latter. The nearest approach to it might be the Bordeaux dog, the progenitor of the ideal draft dog utilized on the continent.—London Tit-Bits.

Oriental Way of Making Coffee.

In a lecture at the Royal Institution in London on "Science in the Home" Professor C. V. Boys said coffee was a food in regard to which there was much to learn. As usually made, with boiling water, all the volatile matters went off in the steam, the house being filled with their fragrance, and the nutritive part was left in the pot adhering to the grounds. The oriental method was to pour a little water through a lot of coffee over and over again, and men had been known to sit up all night doing it. A little cold made coffee so prepared and served in a hot cup with hot milk was far more delicious than the decoction usually put on the table.

A Lifelong Regret

By F. A. MITCHEL

When the big European war broke out on the 30th of July, 1914, I was in Berlin. My parents being Germans, though born in America myself, I thought it would please my father if I volunteered to fight the allies. So I went off to Belgium with a company of uhlans and got into the thick of it at once.

My chief delight was scouting. While the German army was reducing the forts about Liege there was work to do in a different way, and I was much better pleased at doing it than hanging about camp, though even the cavalry was pretty busy. I would ride out in neutral ground with a small camera and take pictures of fortifications—that is, when I could get near enough to do so without being discovered.

One day I had been unusually successful and on my way back to my command stopped at a farmhouse for refreshment. A pretty Belgian girl served me, but evidently with a very poor grace, regarding me as an enemy of her country. Between the sexes there is always a special interest in making a conquest where the party to be conquered resists the would be conqueror. I said so many pleasant things to the girl that it was not long before I congratulated myself upon having quite won her over.

Having rested for some time, I was about to mount and ride away when she made an excuse to detain me. I was not unwilling to be detained and spent an hour longer with her, during which period I did some lovemaking than I had ever done before. I made several efforts to tear myself away, but my little girl looked so reproachful at my going that I consented to remain just a little longer.

I stayed just a little too long. Suddenly hearing the beating of horses' hoofs, I started up with a view to getting away, but before I could mount my horse a squadron of Belgian cavalry came down on me and made me a prisoner. With them was a boy of fourteen whom I had seen about the place when I had first arrived. It was evident that the girl had detained me while she sent him to inform the soldiers of my presence.

I heard the officer in command thank her for the information she had sent him, and she seemed quite proud of what she had done. I was searched, and the photographs I had taken were found on me, to say nothing of my camera. Upon this the officer turned to the girl and said:

"Mademoiselle, you have helped us to quite a prize. While the captive you have given us is in uniform, he has been taking photographs of our works and will be treated accordingly."

"How is that?" asked the girl, paling.

"He will be shot."

If any blood remained in the girl's face it vanished, and I thought she would swoon. It occurred to me that she had not considered the importance to herself in the part she was playing.

But there came another turn in the affair. I had gone so long on my scout that my captain, fearing I had got into trouble, galloped out on the road. I had taken to look after me. Suddenly while the Belgians were off their guard he appeared at the head of his troops, dashing around a bend in the road from behind trees. The Belgians took to flight, and I was rescued. They were pursued for some distance while I was pulling myself together and getting the arms and accoutrements that had been taken from me. When I had collected everything I could find I turned to the girl who had betrayed me.

I have never in my life seen such a perfect example of sudden change. Crying before me, she looked up into my face with a supplication for forgiveness. I returned it with a stony stare, in which I threw all the contempt I could express. She cowered beneath it, and, turning my back upon her, I stalked out of the house, mounted my horse and rode away with my comrades.

We advanced on Paris, were driven back in the battle of the Marne, and six months after the episode I have related I one day found myself fighting again in Belgium. Upon a temporary cessation of the fight I looked about me, and the region seemed familiar to me. I was near a house that I recognized as the one in which I had been betrayed.

I had always regretted having, under the strain of narrowly escaping death, dealt so harshly with the girl who had betrayed me. I went to the house and called for her, intending to speak a kindly word to her, but when I asked for her I was told that she was dead.

I winced. She was beyond either my contempt or my forgiveness.

"Did she die of an injury?" I asked.
"No. A young uhlans came by here one day, and she detained him while she sent her brother to inform some Belgian cavalry of his presence. They came and captured him, but he was rescued by his own men. The girl never forgave herself for having betrayed him and pined away and died. It's likely that she fell in love with him without knowing it."

I turned away with a pang. It is not long since the end of the story, but somehow I feel that there will always be a sore spot in my heart, a lasting regret that I was unable to forgive her, possibly to save her from a premature death.

GLORY IN THEIR GLOOM.

These Pessimists Love Misery and Revel in Wretchedness.

Vowing never to admit that passing time has given the world any cause to rejoice or that it has brought or ever can bring any good to the human race, Liverpool's "Pezzers' society" stands out unique among the many organizations which have come into existence. Its members are true pessimists, and it appears that the brotherhood was known originally as the Liverpool Society of Pessimists. Later the name was contracted to its more academic present form.

Curiously enough, the original members did not set out to be preachers of gloom. Quite the contrary. They were amateur social reformers and dabblers in abstract science who met occasionally in an obscure coffee house. The apparent futility of their efforts to impress the world, which did not desire to be reformed in any way and which evinced no taste for their abstract science, caused the little band to organize to take what comfort it might in pessimism.

None of the members must be cheerful on pain of immediate expulsion. They are only optimists about one thing, and that is their pessimism. They revel in their gloom and are only happy in their unhappiness. The society is well conducted. It has its rules and its officers. The greatest event in the pessimist year is the annual "Pezzers' razzle," when the members make a gloomy pilgrimage, which lasts throughout the night. On this occasion they go forth in costume as nearly approaching sackcloth and ashes as possible, and a dark, dismal night is chosen. Supper over—and there is nothing gloomy about the food—the tables are pushed back, the cheerful lamps are extinguished and the company sit round the fire smoking churchwarden pipes.

A little later the harder "Pezzers" embark on a gloomy tramp, which lasts throughout the night. Down country lanes, across the fields and through the woods they go, never missing a graveyard or anything really depressing. In the churchyard of a very ancient parish they halt and remain for an hour or so while Gray's "Elegy" is solemnly recited by the arch-Pezzer and other Pezzers less arch recite gloomy poems of their own or some one else's composition.

If the night is unusually dark and they are able to lose themselves in consequence they are as happy as sworn pessimists may permit themselves to be. It is then that the society's torch bearer is allowed to exercise his sole and rare prerogative of lighting up. The "torch" is a very ancient horn lantern stuck on the end of a pole and containing a pessimistic candle. It is only to be lighted when the Pezzers are utterly lost and cannot possibly find their way without illumination, and when their bearings are ascertained it is promptly extinguished.—Argonaut.

Alaric the Goth.

Alaric, the first of the barbarian kings who entered and sacked the Eternal City and the first enemy who had appeared before its walls since the time of Hannibal, is said to have received as the price of his departure from the city (during the first siege, in A. D. 408) 5,000 pounds weight of gold, 3,000 pounds weight of silver, 3,000 silken robes, 3,000 pieces of scarlet cloth and 4,000 pounds of pepper. In order to furnish a portion of the ransom demanded by the invader it became necessary to melt down some of the statues of the ancient gods.

Magellanic Clouds.

The Magellanic clouds are two cloudy masses of light, oval in shape and unequal in size, seen at night in the heavens in the vicinity of the south pole. They are supposed to be nebulae, or dense aggregations of stars, so far distant as to give to the unassisted eye the impression of cloud-like masses. They cover areas of 42 and 10 square degrees respectively and are so named in honor of Ferdinand Magellan, the great Portuguese navigator, who first observed them in 1529 during his voyage around the globe.—Exchange.

Court Dress of Tennyson.

Tennyson's court dress when he received the laureateship did not cost him much, for it was the same court dress worn by Wordsworth, who in turn had it from the old poet Rogers, and it is still in the Wordsworth family. It is a wonder how Tennyson and Wordsworth got into it, for Rogers was a little fellow. Tennyson had no passion for courts, and so he went in second hand to save cost.—New York Press.

Siam's Peculiar Order.

Some years ago his majesty of Siam gave an Italian, for painting one of his wives from a photograph, "the grand cross of the Siamese crown." It is a rather large order. "This cross," said his majesty graciously, "will entitle you to marry twelve wives. It is a distinction I seldom confer, so I hope you will make good use of it."

A Requisite.

"He is a powerful speaker."
"That fellow? He doesn't look like an orator."
"He isn't; he's foreman in a boiler works."—Exchange.

Culinary Result.

"How was it Blinks got into such a stew?"
"Because he cooked his reports."—Baltimore American.

Friendship is love without his wings.—Byron.

Indignant.

"Doesn't your choir sing at the prison any more?"

"No. Several of the prisoners objected on the ground that it was not included in their sentences."—Stray Notes.

BAKERS OBJECT TO WRAPPING CAKES

Thursday evening the bakers of the city will hold a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock and have invited the members of the board of health to meet with them and talk over the provision of the new sanitary code. The bakers object to the section that requires all breads, biscuits, pies and cakebusts sold from the wagons to be wrapped in paraffin paper or other proper dust and fly proof covering before leaving the shop. The bakers have no objection to wrapping the bread, but their main objection is being forced to wrap cake and rolls, which are placed on large tins in the wagon. Very few customers buy all one kind of rolls or cake they say and if they have to wrap all one kind of cake together it would make it difficult to handle from the wagon and the icing on the cakes would run together in warm weather. They also say that their trade purchase from two to twenty cents worth of cake and rolls and it would be extremely difficult to know just how to wrap up the rolls and cake in order to comply with the ordinance.

MOVIES SEEK LIBERTY.

Attempt to Bring Grievances Before Constitutional Convention.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, May 12.—Discussion upon proposed amendments to the state constitution relative to the production of motion pictures, is likely to be interesting and perhaps important. Through the introduction of an amendment an attempt is being made to remove all censorship from screens.

It has been the policy of practically all of the manufacturers of moving picture photographs and scenario editors to exclude from production certain themes. Morbid or immoral topics have been frowned upon as a general thing. If the proposed amendment is favorably acted upon, the liberty of the moving picture will not in future be abridged.

Certain of the delegates believe that the moving picture is an educator and that in order to properly educate all conditions of life, whether sordid or otherwise, should be shown upon the screen. These delegates line up with the introducer of the proposed amendment, Mark Eisner.

Naturally moving picture men favor the proposed amendment also. Its adoption would broaden the scope of their operations and make less difficult the obtaining of plots and situations. These amusement promoters in some instances, have pointed out that gruesome subjects are frequently the most desired by the patrons of moving picture houses.

The adoption of Delegate Eisner's amendment would mean that the army of moving picture men would be able to secure the right to take views of wrecks, catastrophes and accidents to a far greater extent than at present. Enterprising camera men have more than once succeeded in obtaining films of this nature, but the attempts have been accompanied by extreme difficulty in many instances.

The Eisner amendment has not been discussed to any great extent, yet when a hearing is given upon it, as in all probability will be the case, strong arguments are expected to be made in its favor. It is expected also that reform associations will oppose it along the same lines as are taken to prevent the presentation of drama that is believed to be detrimental to the amusement loving public.

Taking for an argument the adage "truth is stranger than fiction," advocates of the Eisner amendment are hoping to bring about the production of motion picture films in the future based upon truth to a greater degree, perhaps, than heretofore.

Delegate Eisner believes that moving pictures should be treated in the same manner as is the press of the country. There is supposed to be no check upon public speech and he is of the opinion that there should be no muzzle upon the silent yet expressive operations of the moving picture camera.

The Eisner amendment has been referred to the committee on bill of rights. Hon. Louis Marshall is chairman of the committee. No date has as yet been set for a hearing. In case objection is legitimately raised against any moving picture film, reputed to be libelous or otherwise improper, if the fact be established that the screen was shown with good motives and to meet justifiable ends, the person showing such screen will be acquitted or absolved from blame.

"Music Hath Charms."

The Baracca Class of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on Tuesday evening gave a very pleasing and entertaining two act farce, "Music Hath Charms," in the lecture room of the church before a large audience. The play was skillfully produced and reflected great credit on those taking part. The cast of characters was as follows:

Gerald Rensen... LeRoy Halwick
Charles Gray... William Engle
Bertram LaMontagne... Robert Baylor
Bud Brown... Harold Buddington
Bunk Anderson... Edward Cochrane
Jack Underwood... W. Smith
Dick Henderson... Edward Blanshan
Bill Simmons... Henry Engle
George Duncan... Harry Hasbrouck
Tom Hemmingsway... Walter Kidd, Jr.
Arthur Fletcher... Paul Jones
Prof. Elsay... W. Brady, Jr.
The scene of the farce was laid in a dormitory in Montauk College on the eve of the great baseball game with Clinton College.

Safety matches did not come into use until 1852, when a Swede by the name of J. E. Lundstrom started to make these matches at Jonkoping, although his process had been patented eight years previously by another Swede, G. E. Pasch, who, however, never put into practical use his invention.

Farm and Garden

THE FARMER AND THE CROW.

Virtues of the Bird Are Beginning to Be Recognized.

[Prepared by the United States department of agriculture.]

None of our native birds so much concerns the average farmer of the eastern states as the common crow. Many of our present criticisms of this bird, as its pulling sprouting corn, feeding on ripening ears, damaging fruits of various kinds, destroying poultry and wild birds and disseminating diseases of live stock, were common complaints in the days of the early colonists. Many of the virtues of the crow, now quite generally recognized, also have been matters of record for many years. In recent times, however, scientific study of these problems, including the examination of the stomachs of hundreds of crows secured in every month of the year and under a variety of conditions, has enabled us to render a much fairer verdict than was formerly possible.

THE COMMON CROW.

The crow is practically omnivorous. During spring and early summer any form of insect life seems to make a desirable item in its diet, and in winter when hard pressed nothing in the animal or vegetable kingdoms which contains a morsel of nutriment is overlooked.

The insect food of the crow, which comprises about a fifth of its yearly sustenance, does much to atone for its misdeeds. Grasshoppers, May beetles and their larvae (white grubs), caterpillars, weevils and wireworms stand out prominently. In 1,103 stomachs examined these highly injurious forms comprised over 80 per cent of the insect food. Grasshoppers are naturally taken in greatest abundance late in the season, September being the month of largest consumption, when they form about a fifth of the total food. May beetles and white grubs are eaten in every month except January, but occur most prominently in May. In June caterpillars are a favorite food, and weevils of various kinds are taken in varying quantities throughout summer and fall. About half of the remaining 20 per cent of insect food is composed of beneficial ground beetles, ladybirds, predaceous bugs and parasitic wasps, and related forms, the rest consisting of neutral or injurious forms. Numerous instances are on record where fields badly infested with white grubs or grasshoppers have been favorite resorts of crows, whose voracity has resulted in a material suppression of the pest. When the amount of food required to sustain the individual crow is considered, the work of these birds appears all the more important. Single stomachs containing upward of fifty grasshoppers are not uncommon. Thus in its choice of insect food the crow is rendering an important service to the farmer.

In the other animal food of the crow are several items of the utmost economic importance. Spiders are taken in considerable numbers in May and June, but the yearly total is a little over 1 per cent of the food. In early spring crawfish are eagerly sought, and other aquatic food as fish and mollusks lend variety to the crow's bill of fare the year around. In the consumption of toads, salamanders, frogs and some snakes, which together compose a little over 2 per cent of the yearly food, the crow is doubtless doing harm. Small rodents occurred in the stomachs collected nearly every month, but it is often difficult to determine whether small mammals found in birds' stomachs were taken alive or found dead.

Mangels as a Stock Feed.

The mangel crop is a heavy yielder, and it is considered to be one of the most satisfactory of the root crops for cattle, says the Iowa Homestead. Horses do not like mangels very well, and even if they did the crop is too watery to use in large quantities. Of course it can hardly be said that this crop can be made to take the place of corn in the central west, and under ordinary conditions mangels can be used only in supplementary quantities for cows, young cattle and even for fattening steers. There is considerable labor involved in handling the crop, and for that reason we would advise no man to grow a large area.

The Suave Oriental.

Admiral Sah, the Chinese naval expert, once had the misfortune to lose a cruiser. On his reporting the wreck to the Chinese admiralty he received a letter thanking him for doing so and pointing out that as the cruiser was getting somewhat worn out a replacement would be much more useful. Would he, therefore, at his private expense, buy the new cruiser as quickly as possible!

Putting Him Wise.

"I'd like to make you my wife," said the practical young man, "but they tell me you can't keep house."
"Don't you believe all they tell you," rejoined the girl in the case. "You get the house and put it in my name, and I'll prove to you that I can keep it."—Exchange.

An Economy.

"No money, no trunks," said the irate landlord. "If you don't pay your board bill we hold your trunks till you do."
"Splendid!" said Dedbrooke. "That'll save me the expense of storage on these things of mine until next season. By-by, old man!"—Judge.

Locating a Cabinet Leak.

Once years ago, when Daniel Webster was secretary of state, there was an important foreign matter up for discussion before the cabinet, and the utmost secrecy was of course maintained, but the whole thing was blazoned about in a few hours after the cabinet meeting. So the president hastily sent for his cabinet to talk over this leak. Each man had a different idea of it. Finally Mr. Webster arose, saying, "You, gentlemen, go on with your discussion, and I'll be back in a minute." In a few minutes he returned and repeated every word that had been spoken in the room in his absence. He explained that if by standing close to the door outside the cabinet room you held your ear to it you could not distinguish one intelligible word, but if, moving back from the door and a little to one side upon a certain spot in the carpet, you kept an attentive ear every word could be plainly heard as though whispered. Some enterprising eavesdropper had been experimenting with the door and had found that upon that exact spot there was some acoustic property of the door or room that conveyed the sound in perfect entirety.

THE VILLAGE POSTMASTER

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

At first it used to make me nervous and give me trouble, but it's bin goin' on so long that I'm gettin' used to do it. As regular as clockwork every Monday mornin' Peter Jones calls at the postoffice and leads me into a corner and whispers:

"Jube Pike, you are postmaster of Podunk and in touch with the government. Anything comin' from you goes. D'you know what's on foot to smash the United States all to splinters?"

"No."

"You'd never dream it, Jube. You'd never suspect it. I only caught on by the merest accident. Come closer. D'you know what Abner Joslyn is goin' to do if he don't get nominated for the legislature? I've got it as straight as a ten foot pole. He's goin' to bolt, sir; goin' over to the other party and take Silas Comfort and Joe Harrison with him. Yes, sir; that's the plot and plan, and you kin judge what the results will be. We'll be knocked colder'n a wedge. Move, sir; move without a moment's delay. Jest sit right down and get a letter off to Washington and tell them what's up. Tell them not to take chances or waste time. I think Silas and Joe can be bought off, but the square must be arrested and chained hand and foot till the danger is over."

Tuesday is Deacon Taylor's day. Along about 11 o'clock he comes in and inquires if clotheslines are still bein' made the usual length and then raps on the counter and says:

"Jube Pike, this government is standin' on the verge of a chasm and don't know it. It's for you to save us from a gigantic catastrophe."

"What's wrong, deacon?" I asks.

"Don't talk so loud. The town of Podunk is full of spies. Jube, you know Moses Carter, of course. You know that when he didn't get the nomination for constable two years ago he went out of politics and didn't give a red cent who was elected or defeated. He's bin layin' low, sir; bin playin' possum and thinks the time has come now. He's bin readin' up and gettin' fingers together, and he's comin' out with a statement that the tariff rates hev shut up seven different cooper shops in this county alone in the last four years. Think of that, Jube, for a thunderclap!"

"But what we goin' to do?"

"It depends upon you, sir, and if I was in your boots, holdin' down a postoffice at $26.50 a year and in touch with the government, it wouldn't take me ten minutes to get a dispatch to Washington. They ought to be notified at once. It ought to be put to them mighty strong. Remember it's up to you," he said as he went out.

Wednesday I can allus look for Jacob Warner. Jacob had a brother scolded by Indians in 1868, and he wrote a letter to General Grant in 1872, and he's accounted a purty big man about Podunk. He's allus been wantin' to run for supervisor, but has somehow allus got left. He's still wantin' and comes in on Wednesdays and hangs around fur a spell and then says:

"Jube, I've known you goin' on twenty-eight years, and I'm the last one to take the bread out of your mouth."

"Anything up?" I asks.

"That is, sir, and don't you forget it. Yes, sir, that's sumthin' up, and Washington can't hear of it any too soon! I'll talk to you as I would to no other man in Podunk, because I feel as if I bin trust you. Jube, do you know that that is one man in this town that can bust the whole United States higher than Gilesey's kite just makin' one speech?"

"No, is it possible?" says I.

"It's just this way," he says, as he drops his voice to a whisper. "You write to Washington and tell them that's danger ahead, and the awfulest kind of danger. Tell them that that's a man in Podunk who has worked fur the party night and day fur the last twenty years and has got no thanks fur it. That man has contributed every liberty pole for the last ten years. He's argued and jawed and fit fur the party. He's even called his own brother a liar fur sayin' that taxes was too high. Jube, such faithfulness deserves a reward—virtue is goin' to triumph as usual, but if not!"

"Don't get excited, Jacob."

"I'm not gettin' excited, Jube, but if you and the rest of the government wants to avert a catastrophe you'll get your heads together mighty quick and see that the right thing is done."

Next day I count on Phileas Bluefields showin' up. Phileas had a great-grandfather killed in Havana by the fall of a hoghead of sugar, and since he's become of age he's been proessin' a claim for $10,000 damages. He says:

"Look here, sir. I'm either goin' to have that money or that'll be the awfulest row in this kentry anybody ever heard of! I'm as quiet as a hen up to a certain point, but when you wake me up I'm fur blood and slaughter. I've stood it as long as I propose to, and you'd better see to things. Jest say as much in a letter to Washington. Say it's a case of bust or make fur these United States, and put a scratch under every word and sign your name in red ink. I will be in next week and hear what they write back. If the money is to come I'll go along humbly; if not, I'll proceed to rip things up the back and smash candies till North America won't hev a leg to stand on!"

ALBANY DOCTOR Makes Wonderful Cures

DR. SWINBURNE OF ALBANY,
will be in Kingston Friday May
14th, at 340 Broadway
A Remarkable Cure of Castleton
Woman

Mrs. John Vanderwall, of Castleton, N. Y., was an invalid for over two years. Doctors said she had Bright's disease, disordered stomach and heart trouble. There seemed no hope for her case and she was confined to the bed for over a year. On the 12th of March, 1914, Dr. Swinburne, of Albany, was called to see her and by a careful examination found that the other doctors were mistaken in their diagnosis. Dr. Swinburne assured her she could get well. Today she is enjoying good health and able to look after her house work and social duties.

Amsterdam Fireman Cured of Rheumatism.

Mr. Henry Cole, of Steamer 2, Fire Company, of Amsterdam, was so crippled from rheumatism that he had to give up work and could only get around with the aid of crutches. After treating a long time with several doctors without satisfactory results he became much discouraged and thought there was no hope for him. His attention having been called to the wonderful work Dr. Swinburne was doing, he decided to make one more effort to obtain relief. To Mr. Cole's great astonishment he found after taking Dr. Swinburne's treatment one month he had no further use for his crutches and after three months' treatment was entirely cured. He is now at work and enjoys perfect health.

Severe Stomach Trouble Cured.

Mr. John Steiner, a Schenectady fireman, suffered terribly from stomach disorders, until his local doctors declared he had worms of the stomach, and there could be no help except by an operation. Hearing of Dr. Swinburne, he decided to consult the doctor, and after four months' treatment he has been completely cured, and can now eat any ordinary food without any distress whatever.

Another Remarkable Case in Schenectady.

Mrs. H. Robertson, of 24 Thompson St., had severe stomach trouble, also diagnosed as worms of the stomach by her local doctors, and an operation was advised, but after two months' treatment with Dr. Swinburne she is able to eat all ordinary food without distress, is now feeling fine, and has gained 15 pounds in weight.

Albany Woman Cured of Diabetes.

A remarkable cure in Albany in the case of Mrs. George H. Rogers, of 588 Lancaster St., Pine Hills. Mrs. Rogers had been suffering for some time with the disease known as diabetes mellitus, and her family physician could not give her any relief or any hope of a cure, for as he stated, the disease was very bad and of high specific gravity. The wonderful results of Dr. Swinburne's treatment in other serious cases, Mrs. Rogers decided to consult him. After six months, Mrs. Rogers is cured, and she has obtained a complete cure of the trouble and is enjoying good health.

These wonderful results are produced by the improved methods of treatment, and suffering from any trouble, where a family doctor does not produce relief, consult Dr. Swinburne.

BARNES TO PROVE ROOSEVELT A BOSS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Court House, Syracuse, May 12.—That for a period Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and not William Barnes was Republican "boss" of the Empire State was the burden today of Barnes's rebuttal in his celebrated $50,000 libel suit against the former president of the U. S.

Senator Elon R. Brown of Watertown, called by Barnes, said Roosevelt was the dominant leader in 1910. He based his opinion, he said, on the fact that the New York Republican convention that year nominated Charles E. Hughes for governor in response to an open letter from Roosevelt urging Hughes's nomination.

Brown threw a bomb into the Barnes camp by saying that Barnes, in the senatorial deadlock of 1911, assured him that he, Barnes, could deliver the Republican vote in the senate and assembly to an independent Democrat for senator.

William F. ("Blue Eyed Bill") Sheehan was at the time the regular Democratic aspirant for Chauncey M. Depew's toga.

But Brown immediately turned upon the Roosevelt cause by declaring that Barnes told him he wanted to send to the senate a man not under the influence of Tammany Hall. Barnes conceded that a Republican could not be elected and he desired a Democrat not under Murphy's control.

This was a severe broadside at the defense, as the alleged libel is based on Roosevelt's published statement July 22, 1914, that Barnes was in corrupt alliance with Charles F. Murphy in electing James O'Gorman to the U. S. senate.

For the first time it became known through Brown's testimony that Barnes favored the election to the senate of Thomas Mott Osborne. Brown saw Osborne who was receptive, but O'Gorman was elected.

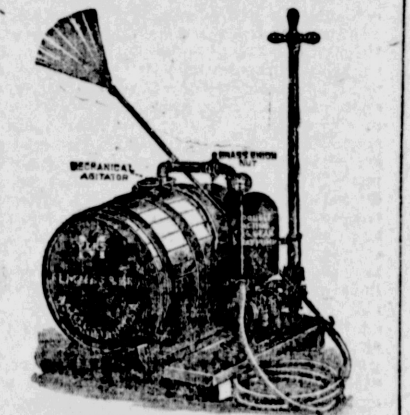

BICYCLE NUISANCE.

Abusive Riders Who Use the Sidewalks Should be Curbed.

A revival of the riding of bicycles on the sidewalks seems to have struck the town. The riders as a rule are young people who shout and ring their bells and make insulting remarks to pedestrians who do not jump out of their way quickly enough to suit them. Only recently a child was knocked down on Albany avenue and injured by one of these reckless riders. The excuse given by some of the cyclists is that the street are impassable owing to the oil, but they are entitled to no more consideration than a pedestrian. The law regulating these vehicles is still in force and they should be made to live up to it the same as motorists. For a time during the waning of the bicycle craze there were few complaints but since the bicycle has again struck public fancy many violations are being reported. Although the law requires motor vehicles to stop at crossings where a trolley car is standing there seems to be no attempt made to stop bicyclists who worm their way through a crowd and curse at people who do not move fast enough. If an example was made of a few of these smart alecks it would be heartily applauded by many pedestrians.

McGraw Yearns for Speedy Return of Snodgrass, Now Hors de Combat.

New York, May 12.—No returning prodigal was ever given a warmer welcome than will be Snodgrass's when he finally reports back to his manager. For the past week "Snow" has been out of the game while nursing an injured hand. As his wounds, though painful, were not of a particularly serious nature, McGraw hopes to have him back at his disposal within a few days, and then the Giant's manager is expected to really begin his chase for the "Flag."

A Test of Friendship.

A gentleman tried the following peculiar way of probing the ties of friendship: He sent letters to twenty-four intimate friends asking for a loan of $1. Thirteen of the two dozen friends did not reply at all, five declined to lend the money, two promised to send it on the next day and did not do it, one sent his "last 10 shillings," and only three sent the full sum asked for. The supplicant and all the "friends" he had written to are well off.—London Mail.

Telegraphing With Cannons.

When the first vessel completed the passage of the then new Erie canal in 1825, there being no such thing as a telegraph in those days, the news was communicated to New York and to Buffalo by cannons placed within hearing of each other all the way along from Albany to each of the other cities. The signal was passed along in this way from Albany to New York city and back again to Albany in fifty-eight minutes. The experiment was a costly one, but was a success in every particular.

Don't Regard the Fly Lightly; His Touch Is Death

YOU have been harboring a potential murderer in your home. You have been exposing yourself, your children, your entire family, in fact, and the visitors who come to an assassin nearly as successful as a poisoner as Lucretia Borgia was, and he's there today. Even while you read these lines he may be at work. Glance up from the page to where your baby crawls in the sunshine or slumbers in his crib. Is there a buzzing fly upon his chubby cheek or hovering above his ruddy parted lips? Destroy it and lose not a moment in the doing, says Dr. Herbert D. Pease in Good Housekeeping.

During countless ages the fly has been tolerated, smiled at, brushed away gently or slapped at violently, according to the temper of his victim. He has been sung in jingles by minor poets who might have been better employed, acclaimed as a comedian for the amusement of infants, used as a vehicle for the paragon's shafts of wit, even eulogized by pseudo-scientists as a benefactor of the human race without which we were doomed to extinction. And all during the years he has been industriously at work killing us right and left.

MANY DEEDS OF HEROISM WHEN THE LINER LUSITANIA WENT DOWN.

London, May 12.—"Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure in life" were the last words of Charles Frohman before he went down with the Lusitania, according to Miss Rita Jolivet, an American actress, with whom he was talking calmly just before the end came.

Miss Jolivet, who was among the survivors taken to Queenstown, said that she and Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Frohman were standing on the deck as the big steamer heeled over. Mr. Vanderbilt took off his own life-belt and insisted on putting in on Miss Jolivet. He was searching for another when the end came.

Miss Jolivet stated that it was when it became absolutely certain that the liner would sink that Mr. Frohman declared that he had no fear of death.

GEN. D'AMADE RECALLED.

Command of French Force in Turkey Goes to General Gouraud.
Paris, May 12.—It was announced here today that General A. G. L. d'Amade, one of the French heroes of the war, has been summoned back to France on a government mission. His position as commander of the French forces on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles will be taken by General J. E. Gouraud, who has conducted several successful expeditions against the Moors.
General d'Amade was in command of the Franco-British expeditionary force in the operations against the Dardanelles before the arrival of General Sir Ian Hamilton, who assumed supreme command. General d'Amade then took charge of the French troops on the Asiatic side of the straits.
It was General d'Amade who protected Field Marshall French's left flank at Mons and during the retreat to the Marne.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, May 12.—Unless the Giants jump into the pennant fight soon—and stay in it—every club in the National League stands to suffer a loss of from $30,000 to $35,000 through poor attendance at the Giant games during 1915.

The Giants have been saviors of the National League for ten years. They have been the power that has kept many clubs from bankruptcy in years gone by. They've done their work nobly, but in this year, of all years, they have faltered at the start. They got away bad—and they can't seem to go right.

If the Giants aren't in the race for the balance of the season, it will mean a loss of nearly $300,000 in attendance receipts, to the league as a whole.

The Giants still have about 125 games to play. About 65 are at home and 60 abroad. When the Giants were in the pennant fight they averaged a daily attendance of 9,000 at all home games. Some days during the middle of the week the figures dropped to the 5,000 mark but the Saturday attendance which averaged around 15,000 generally brought the average up to 9,000—and sometimes beyond.

If the Giants stay in the rut it will decrease the average home game attendance to 4,000. That means a difference of 5,000 per game or $25,000 for the 65 remaining home games.

The Giants used to draw an average of 5,000 daily while on the road. If they are out of the pennant fight that average certainly will drop to 2,500. That makes a difference of 2,500 per day or a total difference of 162,500 for the 65 road games.

The loss of $25,000 patrons at the remaining home games and 162,500 at the remaining road games makes a grand total of 475,000. The gate receipts usually average 60 cents a head. That means that at a conservative estimate the Giants would play to $285,000 less if out of the fight than if they were in the fight.

The entire league would suffer along with the Giants because the gate receipts are split 50-50, except on 75 cents and $1 admissions. Divide the $285,000 eight ways and it shows that each club would lose about $35,625 through the failure of the Giants to be among the pennant contenders all the way.

But even if the Giants do get back into the scrap it is certain that they won't draw the huge home crowds of former years—they have competition now—something they haven't had in real form since 1904. The Yankees seem to be back among the people just now and they promise to stay there. The fans seem awakened to the strange—but seemingly true—fact that the 1915 Yanks are making noises like a real ball club.

The Gotham fan who gave the Yanks the go-by in other years and patronized the Giants exclusively is splitting his patronage now. If the Yanks keep on surprising the baseball world and the Giants don't hit their stride soon, the non-partisan fan who years only for real baseball may transfer his patronage to the American Leaguers.

In other words, the 1915 outlook for the Giants in particular and the National League as a whole, is none too rosy, even though 1915 promises to be a 100 per cent better baseball year than was 1914.

WALKER VALLEY.

Walker Valley, May 12.—Miss Ada Decker of Kingston is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frances Marshall.

Mrs. Thomas Mance entertained her children Sunday in honor of her birthday.

Mrs. Paul Holiday has been confined to her room with the grip. Her many friends will be glad to hear she is able to be about again.

Mrs. H. Lambert of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., came up Thursday to look after her summer home here.

A fine monument is being erected in Walker Valley cemetery for John Houston.

B. Lockwood had the misfortune to lose his horse.

Frederick Goldsmith of Cragmoor spent Saturday in town.

Mrs. John Downey of Brooklyn is visiting her friend, Mrs. Anson Polhamus.

Dan Baker of Middletown was a caller in town Friday.

The Willing Workers will meet with Mrs. G. N. Evans Saturday.

Jacob Walker of Walden spent Wednesday at Mrs. George Marshall's.

On Thursday afternoon, May 6, it being the regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid and the birthday of little Edith Keller, the school children and also neighboring children were invited, in all being over fifty. After some sewing by the ladies, the children began with their entertainment. The May queen was put to a vote and the little hostess, Miss Edith, was chosen May queen; Mildred Eckert, maid of honor. Then the children all danced around the May pole. After partaking of refreshments all returned to their several homes wishing the little hostess many returns of the day.

Mrs. Cleveland DuBois was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, on Wednesday.

Verdict in Speers Case.

The jury in the actions brought by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Speers of Clinton avenue against the L. B. Van Wagenen Company which was tried in supreme court and sent to the jury on Tuesday afternoon reached a verdict about nine o'clock that evening and awarded Mrs. Speers damages in the sum of $600 and Mr. Speers a verdict of $100. Mrs. Speers last August was walking past the Van Wagenen store on Wall street when the iron doors covering the freight elevator were suddenly lifted while she was walking across and she was hurled to the sidewalk. She sued to recover $1,000 damages and her husband sued to recover $500 damages for the loss of his wife's services. The action was defended by the insurance company with whom the Van Wagenen Company carried accident insurance. The insurance company, of course, will pay the amounts found against them by the jury unless they appeal the cases. Judge Jenkins and Amos Van Etten tried the cases for the Speers and Walter G. Evans and John M. Foster appeared for the insurance company. Mrs. Speers conducts the confectionery store on Clinton avenue near Main street and her husband is an agent with the Prudential Insurance Company of this city.

From New Paltz.

George Ealnhard got drunk in New Paltz on Tuesday and was arrested and arraigned before Judge Atkins, who sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail. George registered at the county hotel this morning.

THROWS TRICKY CURVE

Larry Cheney of Cubs Possesses Most Deceptive Ball.

Manager Bresnahan Says It Is So Elusive That No Batter Can Hit It and No Backstop Can Hold It—Called Knuckle Ball.

Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Cubs, says that Larry Cheney possesses the most deceptive ball that was ever twirled by a pitcher. It's so deceptive, says Roger, that not only can no slugger lay his bat against it, but no backstop can catch the elusive sphere.

It's a knuckle ball with such a break that Roger once leaped to catch one and the ball broke and cracked him on the forehead. Upon another occasion Roger thought he would catch the sphere at his neck and it broke and slammed him in the stomach, and with such force that Roger doubled up like a jack-knife and spent the remainder of the afternoon on the rubbing table.

Roger says that a catcher should really wear a chest protector, a mask and shin guards when warming up Cheney—that is if he is going to signal for the knuckle.

"If Cheney ever gets control of that ball," said Roger, "there isn't a batter in the game who will be able to touch it. And there is a mighty good chance that he will get control too, for he was able to put it where he willed occasionally last season.

"Cheney pulled it on me last summer. I was warming him up one day when he said: 'Roger, I'm going to give you a knuckle ball.'

"Come right along," I said. "You won't feel sore if it cracks you in the ribs," said he.

"Well, I've caught some pretty good pitchers, was my comeback. I've always been able to make 'em hit the big mit."

"Well, he cut loose. That ball came straight as a string and not very fast. Looked like I was going to grab it at my neck. That's where the big mitt went. When that ball was within four feet of me it took a downward shoot. The next thing I remember I was lying with my face in the grass, for I was warming him up near the clubhouse. Ever have anything hit you a good, solid blow in the pit of the stomach? You have? That's how I felt.

"When I recovered I wanted to know all about it. Cheney showed me. He held that ball firmly against the first joints of his right hand. Then he clasped it tightly with his thumb and threw it just as he would a spitter or a fast one."

NOVEL ANGLES OF BASEBALL

Cold and Dismal Day When Leaders Do Not Come to Bat With Some Diverting Proposition.

It is a very cold and dismal day when the leaders of baseball do not come to bat with some diverting proposition. The latest is to close up the gates of a whole lot of little baseball teams and give the public a rest a little while.

It is rather significant that most of this revolutionary talk has followed the activities of the Federal League. Before the entry of this organization into the field there was comparatively little talk about baseball difficulties. The game seemed to be doing well; salaries were supposed to be reasonable and attendance was pretty fair. Now managers bewail the unnecessary high cost of getting players and the lack of public patronage.

There is no denying the fact that baseball is in a somewhat precarious condition, but I think there are enough brains and money in baseball in this country to work out a pretty fair solution of the difficulties, says a writer in Milwaukee Sentinel. If those who are most concerned will get together on a reasonable basis I have no doubt they will work out a plan which will be satisfactory to themselves and to the public. When this is done there will be no distinction between the Federal and other leagues. Until this is done, there is likely to be difficulty.

Liberty—It's a Brick
Lay in a Lot of it

You could smoke or chew LIBERTY by the hodful and you'd never get enough—it's so mellow and rich and pleasing.

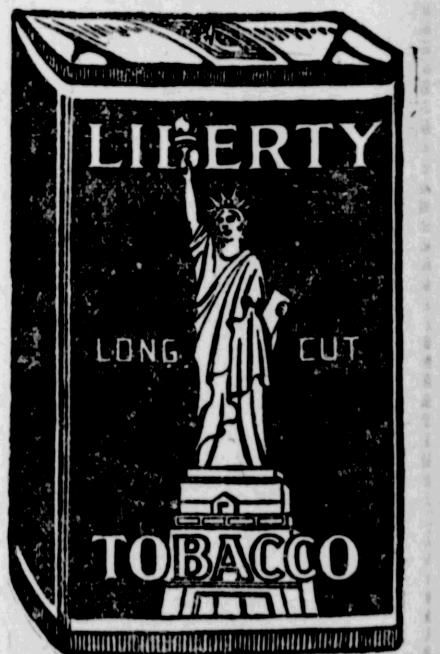

Lay in a supply of it today. Keep some at home and some on the job, and it will hold you steady as a spirit-level trues a wall.

LIBERTY
Long Cut Tobacco

is the one perfect tobacco for the sturdy man who likes his tobacco rich, full-bodied and satisfying. Made of pure Kentucky leaf, aged for three to five years, so as to bring out all its fragrant flavor and sweetness. This is what makes LIBERTY always the same. It doesn't depend upon one season's crop, like many tobaccos. We have several seasons' crops always stored away.

Take LIBERTY on the job for a week's try-out—after that you'll always carry LIBERTY in your jeans. Sold everywhere in 5c packages.
